second, Harold Anderson, 645 Garden Parkway; third, Harley Roush, 343 Meadow Lane. Honorable mention awards went to Allen Moats, 386 Maumee Drive; D. B. Schiewetz, 675 Ridgewood Drive; and R. R. Anderson, 151 Logan St.

Class II, religious theme—first, Mrs. Vernon Saunders, Knollwood Village; second, Jack L. Young, 987 Lynwood Ave. Honorable mention awards went to Mr. and Mrs. Robert V. George, 405 Northridge Road; Mrs. John O'Donnell, 1016 Lynwood Ave.

Class III, best decorated door, doorway or lamp post—first, Doyle R. Painter, 1010 Lynwood Ave.; second, Carl Rihl, 113 Wilson Ave. Honorable mention awards went to Richard B. Davis, 837 Atwater Ave., and Kenneth Henn, 429 Ruth Ave.

Class IV, best new or novel theme—first, Mrs. Carl Bach, 369 Northridge Road; second, (tie) Donald R. Crist, 600 Ridgewood Drive, and Clarence Hart, 629 S. Scioto St. Honorable mention went to Mr. and Mrs. Dick Shaw, 568 N. Pickaway St., and Robert Stephens, Ringgold-Southern Road.

Chamber officials pointed out that due to the large number of entries in Class I, the over-all decorations, the judges decided that a third-place award should be given.

They also pointed out that some of the homes entered in the contest were not lighted and could not be judged. Also, as in the past, many displays were not entered in the contest that would have been among the prize winners, a chamber spokesman said.

Eisenhower

Returns Home

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower has returned to his snow-covered farm home and is planning a trip next week to his favorite sun spot, Palm Desert near Palm Springs, Calif.

The five-star general arrived Tuesday afternoon from Walter Reed Army Hospital where his gall bladder was removed Dec. 12. A spokesman at his office reported "everything is fine."

Eisenhower is scheduled to leave Jan. 4 for California. Meanwhile he plans to take it easy.

Premier Kosygin To Visit England

LONDON (AP)—Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin will visit Britain Feb. 6-13, Prime Minister Harold Wilson announced today.

The announcement of the Soviet leader's coming was seen as an indication of some improvement in British-Soviet relations despite the continuing Vietnamese conflict.

SEVEN FEET TALL AND STILL GROWING — Believed the largest 3-year-old Holstein-Brown Swiss steer in the world, Little Joe will make his first bid for championship honors at Miami's Dade County Youth Fair which opens Jan. 24. Bred and raised on a Miami, Fla., dairy farm, the steer tips the scales at 4,300 pounds, is seven feet tall and still is growing.

Board Curtails Bounty on Foxes

Pickaway County will not pay bounty on foxes starting in 1967.

A motion to this effect was approved Tuesday by the Pickaway Commissioners. Numerous other counties in the state have followed this practice for years or have recently enacted resolutions curtailing the program.

A sum of $800 had been appropriated for fox bounties in Pickaway during 1966. The commissioners said this money was used up several months ago.

The bounty expenditures normally were handled by the sheriff's department. Payments for 1966 amounted to $2 for the four feet of a fox.

THIS year's appropriation was depleted in May. However, in 1965, the amount set aside lasted until December 20.

The commissioners said the bounty program had created problems here in the past. One of them was how to determine if a fox had been killed in Pickaway County.

In other business, the solons drafted a letter of congratulations to be sent to Nancy May, the state's junior division champion in the "Make It Yourself with Wool" contest. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger May, Route 1.

In addition to approving routine transfers and payment of bills, the lawmakers received a list of equipment needing replacement and recommendations for new gear for the County Engineering Department. The report was submitted as required by state law.

The commissioners are scheduled to meet again Thursday afternoon for continued work on county budget appropriations for 1967.

Another Case Of Bugging Is Admitted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department has admitted another case of electronic eavesdropping by the government. It is the eighth admission since last spring.

In papers filed Tuesday night in the 1st U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Boston, the department said the FBI had monitored conversations of Louis J. Taglianetti, who later was convicted of income tax evasion.

The department denied any evidence used in Taglianetti's case was obtained from the FBI bugging, but requested a lower court review of the conviction to determine whether circumstances warranted a new trial.

A Justice Department spokesman said the FBI reported it installed a microphone in 1962 at the business establishment of a close associate of Taglianetti and overheard some of his conversations.

Taglianetti of Warwick, R.I., was found guilty last April of evading taxes for the years 1956, 1957 and 1958. He was sentenced to three years in prison and fined $3,000.

The voluntary announcement of the latest bugging incident followed a Justice Department order last month to examine all cases to determine whether electronic eavesdropping was used to gather evidence illegally.

The department's first voluntary announcement of electronic eavesdropping resulted in a Supreme Court order of a new trial for Fred Black, a Washington public relations man also convicted of income tax evasion.

Winter Storm Moves East Through Ohio

Sleet and Rain Make Hazardous Road Conditions

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ohio had a variety of winter weather Wednesday, ranging from snow to freezing rain and sleet, causing hazardous driving conditions.

Blamed was a winter storm moving northeastward up the Ohio River valley.

There were snow accumulations amounting to as much as several inches in the central and western Ohio counties by dawn Wednesday, and more snow was headed in the direction of Cleveland and Akron.

The Columbus area had several inches of snow, and Zanesville and Kenton, an inch each.

The highway department reported many Ohio roads were snowy and slippery, with some northeastern roads wet.

In Cincinnati, sleet that fell during the night changed to rain, coating windows and cars parked in the streets with sheets of ice, and residential streets were covered with sleet. As the morning rush hour began, a number of accidents were reported.

In Columbus, where morning rush hour motorists found streets covered with more than an inch of snow, temperatures are expected to rise and bring some freezing rain. There were a number of minor accidents reported including several involving trucks which jackknifed on the north freeway.

Toledo experienced some difficulty in the morning rush hour traffic because a demonstration of about 1,000 employees for higher pay held up the work of 25 salt trucks which normally would have been on the job during a snow or ice storm.

The icy streets there caused a major slowdown in work-bound traffic. The forecast for Toledo called for two to four inches of fresh snow and freezing rain by nightfall.

Earthquake Damage High In Chile

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — A violent earthquake shook northern Chile early today and destroyed about 50 per cent of the houses and buildings in the nitrate port city of Taltal, officials reported.

One death was reported at Taltal. A 9-year-old boy was killed by a falling wall. Three other persons were reported injured there.

The earthquake struck about 700 miles north of Santiago in the provinces of Tarapaca, Antofagasta and Atacama.

A spokesman at the city hall in Antofagasta said panic gripped the city and army and police units were called out to maintain order and help in rescue operations.

The spokesman told of the death in Taltal and the destruction in the port. Taltal, a town of about 10,000, contains mostly old buildings of flimsy construction.

Water mains were ruptured there and power lines were down. Army trucks were rushed in with water supplies. The quake at Taltal was said to have registered 8 on a scale of 12.

Much of Chile's big copper industry is located in the area. But the Interior Ministry said Anacondia Copper Co. mines and installations at Chuquibambilla and El Salvador in Antofagasta province were undamaged.

Agreement Near On Kennedy Book

NEW YORK (AP) — The Kennedy book dispute could end quietly now after Mrs. John F. Kennedy's decision to withhold temporarily her suit to stop its publication, a family spokesman indicated today.

"I'm not going to guarantee it," he said, "but much points to a resolution. There has been progress and I think things could well be resolved noiselessly and soon."

Attorneys for Mrs. Kennedy and Harper & Row, publishers of William Manchester's "The Death of a President," an account of the Kennedy assassination, agreed Tuesday to put off hearings on her request for an injunction against the book until mid-January in expectation of a reasonably quick settlement.

The parties, ordered to appear at a State Supreme Court show cause hearing, said the arrangement would give them sufficient time for more discussion on passages to be trimmed from the 300,000-word text. Both sides characterized progress as "steady."

"That's great," said Manchester's wife, Julia, learning of the decision. Manchester, recovering in a hospital from a mild case of pneumonia, was not available for comment.

Mrs. Kennedy and Harper & Row said in a statement that Manchester's hospitalization Monday made it necessary to continue talks "over a longer period than was anticipated."

Hazel Rader Killed in Florida Crash

Mrs. Hazel Rader, Route 3, was reportedly killed in an auto accident Tuesday night or Wednesday morning while vacationing in Florida.

According to the report received here, Mrs. Rader was traveling with Mr. and Mrs. Dudley J. Carpenter, 713 N. Pickaway St., when the accident occurred. Mrs. Rader was a sister of Mrs. Carpenter.

Carpenter, 56, suffered a cut on the side. Mrs. Carpenter was taken to Morton Plant Hospital with cuts on the head and other injuries. Her condition was listed as fair.

Chillicothe Teen-Age Boy Saves 2 Tots

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP) — Fire Chief Floyd Irwin said a 17-year-old Chillicothe boy saved the lives of two little boys Tuesday night when he pulled them from the basement of their burning house.

The boys' mother and sister were seriously burned. The mother, Mrs. James Mallow, was hospitalized here. The girl, 3-month-old Kimberly Mallow, was taken to Children's Hospital in Columbus. Kimberly was listed in critical condition early today.

The boys, Doug, 4, and Greg, 3, were not injured. The mother saved the baby from the main floor of the house where the fire apparently started. Firemen said they believed the blaze originated in electrical wiring in a television set in the room where the baby slept.

The boys were rescued by teen-ager Tom Whitt before firemen arrived. Chief Irwin said Whitt kicked out a basement window and reached in to pull the boys to safety.

Yank Forces Reportedly To Follow

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Thousands of South Vietnamese troops fanned out across canal-laced rice fields deep in the Mekong Delta today and reported killing 89 Viet Cong in two days.

The large-scale search-and-destroy operation was launched Tuesday by ground troops, helicopter-borne units and the Vietnamese first combat parachute jump in at least two years.

The multiregiment force of Vietnamese infantrymen, paratroopers, armored cavalrymen and Popular Force units descended on a Viet Cong stronghold in Chuong Thien Province 126 miles west-southwest of Saigon. American troops reportedly will be deployed in parts of the delta in the near future.

Official secrecy veiled the exact number of troops involved, but the description of the force as multiregimental led to estimates ranging from 3,000 up. Authorized strength of a Vietnamese regiment under normal conditions is 1,500 men.

The paratroopers jumped from 33 planes — 13 U.S. Air Force transports and 20 C-47s of the South Vietnamese air force.

Vietnamese headquarters said the paratroopers ran into no opposition when they jumped. Spokesmen declined to say if any of the jumpers were injured. In a previous large-scale jump in April 1964, 40 per cent

RAIN, sleet and snow created hazardous driving conditions early today on Pickaway County streets and highways. According to the weatherman, more of the same is in store with freezing temperatures Wednesday night and occasional light rain or snow flurries.

THE CIRCLEVILLE Junior Chamber of Commerce reports the Santa Claus project was a complete success this year. Over 5,400 children visited Santa at his headquarters located at the southwest corner of the Court and Main intersections. In addition, Santa received over 500 letters.

Income received by the Jaycees to sponsor the project totaled $673. Expenses were $633, leaving $40 to start the 1967 promotion.

John F. Fissell, chairman of the project, extended his appreciation to the merchants and businessmen who made the project possible through their contributions.

'Religionless Christianity' Subject of Ex-Priest's Book

LONDON (AP) — Charles Davis, who announced last week he is leaving the Roman Catholic Church and priesthood because he says church dogma is too rigid, predicts a thriving future for Christianity.

But, he says in a book published today, Christianity's future will be as "a world church." He also foresees a "religionless Christianity."

Davis, 43, has been a controversial theologian and instructor at Heythrop Jesuit College. He said when he announced he was leaving the church that he planned to marry Florence Henderson of Farmingdale, N.Y.

His book, "God's Grace in History," bears the seal of the Catholic Archdiocese of Westminster, required by the church for publication of any book by a priest. It is a declaration that it is free from doctrinal or moral error but does not imply that those who granted it agree with what the book says. The book was written while Davis taught at Heythrop.

"Religionless Christianity," Davis wrote, "expresses an impatience with a Christianity that rejects the world."

But he added: "The disenchantment of the world by science removing the mystery which prescientific man found in natural forces does not shatter belief in the total dependence of everything on God but vindicates it. God would be less than perfect if He had to interfere in the working of His creation to correct it or remedy some unnoticed defect."

Train, Truck Collision Fatal to 12

7,000 Gallons Of Fuel Oil Spray Passengers

EVERETT, Mass. (AP) — A Boston & Maine one-car diesel passenger train smashed into a fuel oil truck stalled with frozen brakes on a street crossing early today. Twelve persons died as flames engulfed the train and the truck.

Officials said there may have been up to 35 persons aboard the train. No definite check was available on the number aboard the local run.

Chelsea Fire Chief Herbert Fothergill said most of the victims were trapped in the train for 20 minutes until the fire was put out. He said firemen used their bare hands to extricate the passengers.

"A fireman said one door was blocked 'because there was a body lying on the other side.'"

Policeman Ralph DeVito said he and officer George Stewart "tried breaking the windows with our night sticks but that wouldn't work. We couldn't open the door because there was this guy trying to get out the door with his head stuck through the window."

"We pushed him away but then there was so much smoke we couldn't see."

Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston said it received nine dead from burns and four injured. Whidden Hospital in Everett said it received two dead and 10 injured.

Soviet Nuclear-Powered Bombers Over U.S.A.?

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP) — A Lehigh University professor, in a recently published book, says a nuclear-powered Soviet bomber may have made three undetected flights over U.S. territory two years ago.

In Washington, the Defense Department said, however, that it had "no knowledge of any such penetration nor of any 'such aircraft.'" A spokesman said the story "just doesn't make sense."

And a spokesman for the North American Defense Command at Colorado Springs, Colo., said the allegations made in the book "have no basis in fact. To our knowledge, there have been no known or unknown overflights of our territory during or since 1964."

The story was told by John Carroll in the book, "Secret Electronic Espionage." It says the alleged flights may have been made over San Francisco, Calif., New York, and Hawaii in 1964 with a payload equivalent to a 30-megaton bomb and a "phantom instrument box" to ward off radar detection.

Carroll, an industrial engineering instructor, said he was informed of the possible flight by a Korean expatriate in California who claims to be privy to the details of a 1964 meeting in Peking of the Red Chinese Ministry of Defense.

This meeting was supposedly attended by attaches of the North Korean Embassy and conducted by four officers of the Soviet Ministry of Defense.

The Soviets claimed their new airplane had evaded their own radar detection in 23 of 25 penetration missions over 10 major Soviet cities, Carroll states.

"This plane was, they explained, a nuclear-powered bomber with average speeds of 2,500 miles per hour and a top speed of 3,500 miles per hour."

"It had a ceiling of 85,000 feet and the capability of remaining aloft without refueling" or as long as 21 days.

Traffic Toll For Holidays Is Lowered

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Death bypassed the highways in five states during the Christmas holiday weekend, and traffic safety officials credited the achievement to intense driver education, increased police patrols, bad weather and the spirit of Christmas.

Fatalities dropped substantially in several other states, some of them with large populations.

There were no traffic deaths reported in Idaho, Alaska, Nebraska, Delaware or Rhode Island.

Latest figures show that 584 persons lost their lives in the three-day Christmas weekend. Last year 720 persons were killed during Christmas observance. The 1966 Thanksgiving four-day holiday set an all-time record for any holiday period when 748 persons died.

Last year 50 persons were killed in Ohio. This year's toll was 34. Twenty-four persons died in New York State compared to 35 in 1965.

Although the 1966 yuletide death toll was far under last year's total, it was well above the 391 deaths counted in an Associated Press survey for a nonholiday weekend, Dec. 9-12. The National Safety Council has estimated 650 to 750 persons had been killed.

Mrs. Kennedy, vacationing with her children on the British West Indian island of Antigua, could not be reached for comment on the developments.

City Workers On Strike

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — More than 1,000 city employees defied a threat of dismissal to demonstrate for higher pay today, causing a giant traffic jam when snow slicked streets.

The 26 salt trucks which normally would be at work during a snow or ice storm sat idle while members of the Teamsters and Municipal Employees unions remained off their jobs.

One man said a trip that normally requires 15 minutes took 45 minutes on icy streets this morning. The forecast called for two to four inches of fresh snow and freezing rain by nightfall.

"We're kind of in a mess," said Jim Stretchberry, administrative assistant to the city manager. He said no snow or ice removal equipment was operating and no refuse disposal trucks were running.

State highway crews took over snow clearance on expressways, he said, but other streets remained snarled.

The unions are not calling the work stoppage a strike, but term it a demonstration. Small groups picketed city installations despite a warning from City Manager Frank Backstrom that a work stoppage could cost them their jobs.

Backstrom said he would invoke a state law allowing dismissal of striking employees.

Picketers appeared at city buildings, garages and the zoo. Involved in the dispute over pay are 300 Teamsters and 950 members of Local 7 of the Municipal Employees, virtually all the city's non-uniformed employees.

Hazel Rader Killed in Florida Crash

Mrs. Hazel Rader, Route 3, was reportedly killed in an auto accident Tuesday night or Wednesday morning while vacationing in Florida.

According to the report received here, Mrs. Rader was traveling with Mr. and Mrs. Dudley J. Carpenter, 713 N. Pickaway St., when the accident occurred. Mrs. Rader was a sister of Mrs. Carpenter.

Carpenter, 56, suffered a cut on the side. Mrs. Carpenter was taken to Morton Plant Hospital with cuts on the head and other injuries. Her condition was listed as fair.

Roundtown

RAIN, sleet and snow created hazardous driving conditions early today on Pickaway County streets and highways. According to the weatherman, more of the same is in store with freezing temperatures Wednesday night and occasional light rain or snow flurries.

THE CIRCLEVILLE Junior Chamber of Commerce reports the Santa Claus project was a complete success this year. Over 5,400 children visited Santa at his headquarters located at the southwest corner of the Court and Main intersections. In addition, Santa received over 500 letters.

Income received by the Jaycees to sponsor the project totaled $673. Expenses were $633, leaving $40 to start the 1967 promotion.

John F. Fissell, chairman of the project, extended his appreciation to the merchants and businessmen who made the project possible through their contributions.

'Religionless Christianity' Subject of Ex-Priest's Book

LONDON (AP) — Charles Davis, who announced last week he is leaving the Roman Catholic Church and priesthood because he says church dogma is too rigid, predicts a thriving future for Christianity.

But, he says in a book published today, Christianity's future will be as "a world church." He also foresees a "religionless Christianity."

Davis, 43, has been a controversial theologian and instructor at Heythrop Jesuit College. He said when he announced he was leaving the church that he planned to marry Florence Henderson of Farmingdale, N.Y.

His book, "God's Grace in History," bears the seal of the Catholic Archdiocese of Westminster, required by the church for publication of any book by a priest. It is a declaration that it is free from doctrinal or moral error but does not imply that those who granted it agree with what the book says. The book was written while Davis taught at Heythrop.

"Religionless Christianity," Davis wrote, "expresses an impatience with a Christianity that rejects the world."

But he added: "The disenchantment of the world by science removing the mystery which prescientific man found in natural forces does not shatter belief in the total dependence of everything on God but vindicates it. God would be less than perfect if He had to interfere in the working of His creation to correct it or remedy some unnoticed defect."

Farm Records Session Slated

Records, good records, are becoming more and more important as a tool to good farming operations. George Hamrick, Picaway County Agricultural agent, says.

Many farmers just take bills and receipts to the person who makes out the tax return, the county agent notes.

This is a very poor record system, Hamrick says. And the report that your tax authority makes out is no better than your record system. Ohio State University economists report that time spent on good records can return as high as $25 per hour.

Farmers who are interested in a good record system or interested in changing record systems, should plan to be at the 4-H and Grange Building, county fairgrounds, Thursday, at 1:30 p. m. At that time record systems will be discussed completely, with particular emphasis on the new Ohio Commercial Account Book.

Winter Storm

(Continued from Page 1) By early Wednesday (5 a.m.) the mercury had dropped to 21 at Cleveland, 17 at Youngstown, and 23 at Mansfield while in southwestern Ohio, temperatures ranged in the low 30s.

The Ohio Highway Patrol reported that roads in most areas were treacherous.

Some relief, however, was in sight.

The Weather Bureau said the freezing rain was expected to change to snow or snow flurries around Ohio tonight. Temperatures were forecast for the high 20s and low 30s.

CELINA, Ohio (AP)—Dozens of communities in Mercer and eastern Auglaize counties were without electric power today because of lines downed by ice and snow.

Dayton Power and Light Co. workmen were patrolling the area but didn't expect to have power restored until late afternoon.

Communities without power included Minster, New Bremen, Fort Recovery, Coldwater and parts of St. Marys and Celina.

The New Idea Farm Equipment Co. at Coldwater shut down operations and sent 1,800 employees home. Other plants and firms in the area reportedly followed suit.

The outage created a water shortage at St. Marys because electrically powered pumps could not operate.

Hospitals in the area were on emergency power. Civil Defense units were on standby for any emergencies.

Dolls? Poof! Give Michelle A Good Book

PADUCAH, Ky. (AP) — As she boarded the plane, Michelle Robins startled the stewardess by asking for a supply of magazines, newspapers and book.

When they arrived, she settled back in her seat and began to enjoy herself.

It was an unusual sight since Michelle is only 34 months old.

"She's been reading ever since she was 14 months old," said Michelle's mother, Maurine Robins, after they arrived here from Midland, Tex., for a visit with relatives.

"We were driving along the highway one day," Mrs. Robins recalled, "and there was a sign in front of a service station. Michelle read it without an error."

The youngster since has graduated to the Bible, religious periodicals, encyclopedias, children's books and "just about everything she can get her hands on."

Michelle also will correct you if you mispronounce the name of a species of cactus.

"She loves cactus," said Mrs. Robins. "She can name and identify four varieties. And she uses the proper Mexican pronunciations."

Although Michelle's ability to read is unusual, she has a little trouble with mathematics.

She can count only to 30 and 11 comes out "eleventeen."

Alabama Citizens To See 'Togetherness' in Action

By REX THOMAS
MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—In just 19 days, the State of Alabama will have two governors for the price of one — give or take a dollar.

Gov.-elect Lurleen Wallace insists on it. On Jan. 16, she succeeds husband George in the $25,000-a-year job as the state's chief executive.

But from then on, he'll be at her right hand, her No. 1 adviser, a promise she made to the voters in her whirlwind campaigning.

"I'm going to be at the capitol fulltime," Mrs. Wallace said, relaxing behind a desk piled high with mail from well-wishers. "I'm going to be active, but the governor (that's the way she expects her husband to be addressed when he leaves office) will be there with me. We'll be there together."

So far there's no provision for payment of a gubernatorial adviser, but she has half-jokingly called him "a dollar-a-year man," and if the state doesn't pay it, perhaps she will.

A 40-year-old mother of four, Mrs. Wallace has never been a stickler for formality or protocol. But she is dealing with the

Farmers Doing Good Job On Monthly Crop Reports

WASHINGTON (AP)—A check of the Agriculture Census of 1964 today showed farmers have been doing a remarkably accurate job in serving as monthly crop reporters for the Agriculture Department.

More than 100,000 farmers assist the department in making periodical forecasts and reports on crop and livestock production. These reports serve as backbone data for farm markets. Prices go up and down in relation to forecasts made in these reports.

These reports are checked periodically against figures gathered by the Census Bureau in its farm census, taken every five years.

In the case of pig production, for example, farmers' figures on production, made several times a year, for the 1960-64 period were less than one half per cent a year off the actual figures as determined by census takers.

Each farm reporter passes along to the department his best judgment of what he and his neighbors have done and are doing in regard to production of various crops and livestock.

Trained government statisticians take these thousands of reports and come up with the government's forecasts and reports on production.

In the case of wheat, the 1964 census figures show department estimates were off less than one per cent. Those for corn were off less than 3 per cent, for soybeans about one seventh per cent, for sorghum grains less than one half per cent, for rye about one third per cent, hay about one sixth per cent, and rice about one thirty-sixth per cent.

Mrs. Wallace is the third woman in U.S. history to be elected governor. And she already has a first-hand knowledge of the responsibilities and the decisions that the job requires.

Probably her most unpleasant task as governor will be deciding whether to let condemned men die in the electric chair or commute their sentences to life imprisonment. In Alabama, only the chief executive has that power.

fact that she will be working with a former governor, and he is her husband. That presents some problems.

How do you address her? "It is the Honorable Gov. Lurleen B. Wallace, if you want to be real strict and stick to protocol," the governor-elect volunteered. "During my administration, however, everything official will be Lurleen B. Wallace."

If you want to get her dander up, try referring to them as "Gov. and Mr. George Wallace."

"As long as they live, every other ex-governor in Alabama carries the title of 'governor' as a courtesy," Mrs. Wallace said firmly. "I will insist on Gov. Wallace not being called 'mistress'."

Three of the Wallaces children live at the mansion - Peggy, 17; George Jr., 15, and Lee, 5 - but there won't be any babysitter problem. Mrs. Wallace's mother, Mrs. Henry Burns, lives in Montgomery and is available to look after the children anytime she's needed.

The incoming governor doesn't intend to let her official duties interfere with her responsibility as a mother. "I have been involved in politics with the governor for 29 years, particularly the last four years," she explained, "and I have still had time to supervise the children, and I will still do that."

All in Day's Work On Da Nang Peninsula

DA NANG, South Vietnam (AP) — Snipers, a coconut booby-trapped with explosive, the 3 a.m. mortar attack—it is all part of the daily struggle, along with the battles, pacification and logistics.

Da Nang is on the fertile coast of the 1st Corps Area, the five northernmost provinces of South Vietnam which has cool highlands wrinkling into Laos.

A senior Air Force officer who flies from the Da Nang base talked about the day-to-day struggle.

"One day there are 20 fuel trucks 20 miles north of the demilitarized zone, but we can't find them from the air," he said.

"A couple of days later the same trucks are 20 miles south of the zone in Laos. We know they're the same trucks because we have people out there counting them.

"We bomb their convoys, the bridges, and we hurt them. 'Little things add up, too.

"For instance, the North Vietnamese have to drive at night without lights. That means in the north that the supplies and reinforcements move at 20 miles an hour instead of 50, and not as much before we started bombing."

There are 61,000 U.S. Marines throughout the corps area. Their swelling enclaves now include 2,700 of the area's 10,000 square miles. Navy Seabees have added permanence, building barracks, roads, warehouses and piers.

The Marines run an average 300 patrols a day, setting up about 150 ambushes in the process. In 20 months, the Leathernecks officially claim 11,500 enemy dead.

Combined enemy strength—North Vietnamese regulars, main-force Viet Cong and local guerrillas—is estimated at 48,000.

The government has 34,000 regulars in the area 32,000 militiamen who guard bridges and villages.

Giant Air Force B52s, acting on intelligence and infrared detection devices, bomb suspected enemy concentrations regularly. The Marines' new A-1H intruder can detect and destroy moving trucks or boats at night.

In an area 30 miles southwest of Da Nang, 60 per cent of all Marine casualties are attributed to booby traps, compared with less than 5 per cent near the contested demilitarized zone.

The booby traps may be grenades tied to trip wires, hollowed out coconuts, or American beer cans choked with TNT or chemical explosive drained from dud U.S. bombs.

Winter Storm

By early Wednesday (5 a.m.) the mercury had dropped to 21 at Cleveland, 17 at Youngstown, and 23 at Mansfield while in southwestern Ohio, temperatures ranged in the low 30s.

The Ohio Highway Patrol reported that roads in most areas were treacherous.

Some relief, however, was in sight.

The Weather Bureau said the freezing rain was expected to change to snow or snow flurries around Ohio tonight. Temperatures were forecast for the high 20s and low 30s.

CELINA, Ohio (AP)—Dozens of communities in Mercer and eastern Auglaize counties were without electric power today because of lines downed by ice and snow.

Dayton Power and Light Co. workmen were patrolling the area but didn't expect to have power restored until late afternoon.

Communities without power included Minster, New Bremen, Fort Recovery, Coldwater and parts of St. Marys and Celina.

The New Idea Farm Equipment Co. at Coldwater shut down operations and sent 1,800 employees home. Other plants and firms in the area reportedly followed suit.

The outage created a water shortage at St. Marys because electrically powered pumps could not operate.

Hospitals in the area were on emergency power. Civil Defense units were on standby for any emergencies.

Dolls? Poof! Give Michelle A Good Book

PADUCAH, Ky. (AP) — As she boarded the plane, Michelle Robins startled the stewardess by asking for a supply of magazines, newspapers and books.

When they arrived, she settled back in her seat and began to enjoy herself.

It was an unusual sight since Michelle is only 34 months old.

"She's been reading ever since she was 14 months old," said Michelle's mother, Maurine Robins, after they arrived here from Midland, Tex., for a visit with relatives.

"We were driving along the highway one day," Mrs. Robins recalled, "and there was a sign in front of a service station. Michelle read it without an error."

The youngster since has graduated to the Bible, religious periodicals, encyclopedias, children's books and "just about everything she can get her hands on."

Michelle also will correct you if you mispronounce the name of a species of cactus.

"She loves cactus," said Mrs. Robins. "She can name and identify four varieties. And she uses the proper Mexican pronunciations."

Although Michelle's ability to read is unusual, she has a little trouble with mathematics.

She can count only to 30 and 11 comes out "eleventeen."

What a handicap!

Alabama Citizens To See 'Togetherness' in Action

By REX THOMAS

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—In just 19 days, the State of Alabama will have two governors for the price of one — give or take a dollar.

Gov.-elect Lurleen Wallace insists on it. On Jan. 16, she succeeds husband George in the $25,000-a-year job as the state's chief executive.

But from then on, he'll be at her right hand, her No. 1 adviser, a promise she made to the voters in her whirlwind campaigning.

"I'm going to be at the capitol fulltime," Mrs. Wallace said, relaxing behind a desk piled high with mail from well-wishers. "I'm going to be active, but the governor (that's the way she expects her husband to be addressed when he leaves office) will be there with me. We'll be there together."

So far there's no provision for payment of a gubernatorial adviser, but she has half-jokingly called him "a dollar-a-year man," and if the state doesn't pay it, perhaps she will.

A 40-year-old mother of four, Mrs. Wallace has never been a stickler for formality or protocol. But she is dealing with the fact that she will be working with a former governor, and he is her husband. That presents some problems.

How do you address her?

"It is the Honorable Gov. Lurleen B. Wallace, if you want to be real strict and stick to protocol," the governor-elect volunteered. "During my administration, however, everything official will be Lurleen B. Wallace."

If you want to get her dander up, try referring to them as "Gov. and Mr. George Wallace."

"As long as they live, every other ex-governor in Alabama carries the title of 'governor' as a courtesy," Mrs. Wallace said firmly. "I will insist on Gov. Wallace not being called 'mis-ter.'"

Three of the Wallaces children live at the mansion - Peggy, 17; George Jr., 15, and Lee, 5 - but there won't be any baby-sitter problem. Mrs. Wallace's mother, Mrs. Henry Burns, lives in Montgomery and is available to look after the children anytime she's needed.

The incoming governor doesn't intend to let her official duties interfere with her responsibility as a mother. "I have been involved in politics with the governor for 29 years, particularly the last four years," she explained. "And I have still had time to supervise the children, and I will still do that."

The trim, blonde First Lady likes to rib her husband with an occasional touch of Good-natured sarcasm. She enjoys pointing to counties she carried this elections that her husband lost in his campaign four years ago.

Mrs. Wallace is the third woman in U.S. history to be elected governor. And she already has a first-hand knowledge of the responsibilities and the decisions that the job requires.

Probably her most unpleasant task as governor will be deciding whether to let condemned men die in the electric chair or commute their sentences to life imprisonment. In Alabama, only the chief executive has that power.

Farmers Doing Good Job On Monthly Crop Reports

WASHINGTON (AP)—A check of the Agriculture Census of 1964 today showed farmers have been doing a remarkably accurate job in serving as monthly crop reporters for the Agriculture Department.

More than 100,000 farmers assist the department in making periodical forecasts and reports on crop and livestock production. These reports serve as backbone data for farm markets. Prices go up and down in relation to forecasts made in these reports.

These reports are checked periodically against figures gathered by the Census Bureau in its farm census, taken every five years.

In the case of pig production, for example, farmers' figures on production, made several times a year, for the 1960-64 period were less than one half per cent a year off the actual figures as determined by census takers.

Each farm reporter passes along to the department his best judgment of what he and his neighbors have done and are doing in regard to production of various crops and livestock. Trained government statisticians take these thousands of reports and come up with the government's forecasts and reports on production.

In the case of wheat, the 1964 census figures show department estimates were off less than one per cent. Those for corn were off less than 3 per cent, for soybeans about one seventh per cent, for sorghum grains less than one half per cent, for rye about one third per cent, hay about one sixth per cent, and rice about one thirty-sixth per cent.

Posts Stolen From State Highway Project

Weigandt, an employee of the Sidney Landscape Co., reported the posts had been taken sometime during the past two weeks.

Deputy Warren Straley is conducting an investigation.

Never Too Late

Not many years ago, adults looked aghast when they heard of people their own age going to university or attending night school. Education was mainly for children. An individual was educated by 21 or 22, or it was too late.

Following World War II, however, attitudes swiftly changed. Young veterans in their middle and late 20s, and even older, were encouraged by government inducements to complete their education.

High school classrooms teemed with men and women five to as much as 20 years older than their teenage classmates, and college campuses were dominated by the vets.

Night school also became popular with mature adults following the war. Later, thousands of middle-aged housewives and some of their husbands began flocking to night classes. A desire to learn new skills, to improve on old, or to learn a new language or more about the exciting world around them, brought thousands of adults into night classes at high schools and universities.

This fantastic surge of interest in education is due mainly to two things, the public's awareness of the need to keep up with a rapidly changing world and willingness on the part of governments on every level to provide vast educational opportunities for adults.

The zooming popularity of adult education cannot be exaggerated. No longer are older people too embarrassed to start high school at 40 or university at 50 or 60.

No one is too old to learn. In Texas, for example, the oldest school pupil in history recently graduated from an adult basic education class where she learned to write her name, spell, read, and do elementary arithmetic. Her name is Mrs. Lillie Lester and she is 104 years old.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

YOU NEVER know about actors, points out top-drawer novelist John O'Hara—who definitely does! Humphrey Bogart, for instance, began on Broadway as an effete "Tennis, anyone" actor. James Cagney and Pat O'Brien were, believe it or not, chorus boys. Dick Powell warbled his way through all those Warner Brothers musicals on the "Flirtation Walk" pattern. And Gary Cooper and John Barrymore started out as cartoonists! One never can guess at the outset of one's career where it's all going to wind up!

John Straley, staunch defender of the morals and procedures of Wall Street bankers and brokers, has come up with some irrefutable references to same in the Bible:

Job 29:7: I prepared my seat in the street. Genesis 43:18: He may take us for bondmen. 1st Samuel 2:29: Wherefore kick ye at mine offering? Matthew 23:3: Whatsoever they bid, ye observe. Psalm 22:12: Many bulls have compassed me about. Philippians 3:2: Beware of dogs. Luke 10:17: Even the devils are subject.

Any arguments? A papoose strapped to his Indian mother's back leaned out of his shelter and called to another papoose being carried in similar fashion, "How's your old woman on hills?"

And then there was that unfortunate taxidermist's assistant. His boss gave him the heave-ho when he caught him stuffing his pockets.

Speaking about all these marriages of high school kids, one elderly gent of twenty swore he attended one wedding ceremony where the bridegroom wept for two hours. It seems the bride got a bigger piece of cake than he did.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

What can be the reason for tearing in a newborn child?

There is a tiny tube that runs from the lower lid of the eye into the nose. This is called the naso (nose) lacrimal (tear) duct. Occasionally an infant is born with some kind of narrowing of this tiny tube. The tears, instead of flowing into the nose, overflow on to the face.

In most instances this narrowing can be cured without surgery. The duct can be stretched with tiny instruments. This can be done painlessly if the condition doesn't clear up by itself.

This same condition can occur at any age. It may be caused by a chronic sinus infection, polyps in the nose or may be the result of a fracture of the bones of the face and the nose.

The duct can be probed and enlarged and, in most instances this is sufficient to relieve the tearing. When there is complete obstruction surgery can be performed through the nose and can be most gratifying in relieving a condition which is more annoying than serious.

Can chronic constipation ever cause an obstruction of the intestines?

It is possible but highly unlikely that constipation alone will cause an intestinal obstruction. Sometimes there can be a hard impaction in the lower bowel which is temporary and can be relieved by mineral oil and low enemas.

Intestinal obstruction is a far more serious condition. The blockage can be caused by tumors, adhesions, twisting of the bowel or a telescoping of the intestines.

After talking with the Englishman John Owen, the director of the Tanzania national park system who was recently in the United States on a fund-raising expedition to support his East African wild animal sanctuaries, I wrote a column to the effect that the lions were on the Free World's side. Meaning that if Tanzania were going to make anything out of the lions as a tourist attraction, President Nyerere would have to preserve his ties with countries that permit their citizens to travel and take good foreign exchange abroad.

This observation seems to have bothered Mr. Owen, who says that President Nyerere will do what he thinks best for his country, even to the extent of keeping an alignment with the "eastern bloc". But the question I raised is one of logic, not of "facts." The lions are still on our side, even though Nyerere could be making a prime mistake by failing to look at things from the lions' point of view. Tourism and Communism may be incompatible, and if he truly intends to do what is best for his country President Nyerere must eventually come around to this way of thinking.

There is an inherent contradiction between what the Tanzanian representatives say about the United States in the United Nations and what Mr. Owen was doing in this country on his fund-raising expedition to keep the lions and the wildebeests happy. Not too long ago a Tanzanian stood up at the UN to denounce the United States for planning to establish a park and construct a tourist hotel in Samoa. He suggested there was something sinister in this, arguing that the planned improvements in Samoa would not help the "indigenous inhabitants." Whereupon the U. S. representative rightly called it to Tanzania's attention that mainland Americans were barred from owning land in Samoa and were not permitted to engage in any business activity in which native Samoans did not have major participation.

Tourism, said the American

Popular, but Unfashionable

By EDDY GILMORE
LONDON, (AP) — Milady's bare bosom is likely to remain popular — but it's unlikely to become fashionable.

Now who's putting on that front?

A man, of course. He's John Taylor, editor of the British magazine of male fashion, Tailor & Cutter, the voice of Saville Row.

In a book entitled "It's a Small, Medium and Outsize World," Taylor says that he has done a lot of research into his subject.

He says the topless dresses of the mid-1960s were really nothing new. He reports that in the year 1796, the Champs Elysees in Paris came to an interesting halt one afternoon as two interestingly unclad young ladies strolled beneath the leafy trees.

One girl wore only a length of gauze, but tastefully draped.

Girl No. 2 strolled beside her friend with her bosom entirely uncovered.

Those who witnessed the public reaction to the topless dresses in 1964 will be less than surprised at the repercussions in the Champs 168 years before.

Here's what the author says happened:

"Furious to see public convention so lightly disregarded, the surrounding populace caught its breath only deep enough to voice plain hostility.

"It then advanced upon the pioneers in phalanxes of high dudgeon—or perhaps to obtain a clearer view—until the two ladies went in fear of their safety."

Taylor says the two girls were acting under the leadership of a pair of Parisienne fashion queens — Mesdames Recamer and Tallien, who had been, for the best part of a decade, encouraging the use of less and less, and more and more transparent clothing.

On this subject he says: "Gossamer silks, muslins and a variety of other see-through materials, were quite unsupported by the proprieties of underwear, and diamond bracelets were shifted from the traditional of the wrists and arms to encircle thighs and breasts and gleam seductively through the transparent materials which covered them."

But this had faded.

A student of manners as well as fashion, Taylor says that the reason why the bare bosom will never become fashionable is because of middle-aged women.

"The establishment reigns as supremely in female circles as it does in the male," he claims," and as the age levels roughly correspond. Middle-aged women who establish feminine mores are bound to obstruct implacably a style which can offer them nothing but disadvantage."

Emphasizing that women are extraordinary persons, the author says they will "accept a fashion for its own sake—even when they basically disapprove of it."

He cites the modesty boards that appeared like sprouting forests in British offices during the mid-1960s.

The boards — thin strips of wood nailed across the open spaces of the desks where female workers type—were to prevent male colleagues from being able to see female legs.

"It was a typical piece of female illogic," writes Taylor. "The modesty board had about as much sense or reason as those little strips of linen women fasten across their chests in order to hide from male sight the cleavage their décolletage was designed expressly to reveal."

With a philosophical editorial sigh he concludes:

"Women will resort to almost any trick in order to attract a man's attention, and then they will be morally affronted when he looks."

The Business World

By John Cuniff

NEW YORK, (AP) — Despite smaller expenditures and a much smaller working space, research into the inner area of the consumer mind is as economically important today as the explorations of the heavens.

For years, consumer buying intentions have been treated with great solemnity. Now we're finding that the consumer isn't a simple automation that responds to stimuli as a light bulb responds to electric current. He is more complex.

The consumer's intentions cannot, it seems, be placed in the same category as business intentions. Business plans are made formally, often in a board room. Consumer plans are made informally, over the kitchen table. There's nothing definite about them.

What the consumer tells the researcher he intends to do, studies show, isn't always what he actually does. Thus we constantly find the word "unexpected" associated with consumer purchases.

In recent weeks, automobile sales are unexpectedly low, Christmas sales were not as great as merchants had hoped, and some retail food prices fell, partly because of consumer resistance.

In just the automotive area, consumer resistance already is costing manufacturers and suppliers tens of millions of dollars in delayed or canceled sales — sales that surveys had indicated would occur.

Does the consumer ever admit to himself that he won't buy the car he had intended to? Does he admit it to a researcher? Does he ever make a clear-cut decision? Or does he just let the matter drift?

Recognizing this uncertainty, the National Bureau of Economic Research, a reputable private group, has borrowed a term from weather forecasting: Probabilities.

Instead of referring to consumer intentions, the bureau attempts to determine the probability that the consumer will follow through on the stated intention.

One of the first findings was that most purchases in the group of households studied were made by those that had told researchers they had no intention to buy.

Another finding: Consumers who said the chances are greater that they would buy an object in the distant rather than the very near future often made the actual purchase in the near period.

Other studies also are under way now to more precisely determine consumer motivations. It's easy enough to say he will spend when economic prospects are good and that he won't spend when the economy turns down.

But what does he do when the outlook is uncertain? That's the question, and one of today's biggest economic problems too.

The widespread observance of Jan. as the start of the new year stems from Imperial Rome. Julius Caesar chose the date as the first day of the Roman year when he initiated the Julian calendar.

Never Too Late

Not many years ago, adults looked aghast when they heard of people their own age going to university or attending night school. Education was mainly for children. An individual was educated by 21 or 22, or it was too late.

Following World War II, however, attitudes swiftly changed. Young veterans in their middle and late 20s, and even older, were encouraged by government inducements to complete their education.

High school classrooms teemed with men and women five to as much as 20 years older than their teenage classmates, and college campuses were dominated by the vets.

Night school also became popular with mature adults following the war. Later, thousands of middle-aged housewives and some of their husbands began flocking to night classes. A desire to learn new skills, to improve on old, or to learn a new language or more about the exciting world around them, brought thousands of adults into night classes at high schools and universities.

This fantastic surge of interest in education is due mainly to two things, the public's awareness of the need to keep up with a rapidly changing world and willingness on the part of governments on every level to provide vast educational opportunities for adults.

The zooming popularity of adult education cannot be exaggerated. No longer are older people too embarrassed to start high school at 40 or university at 50 or 60.

No one is too old to learn. In Texas, for example, the oldest school pupil in history recently graduated from an adult basic education class where she learned to write her name, spell, read, and do elementary arithmetic. Her name is Mrs. Lillie Lester and she is 104 years old.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

What can be the reason for tearing in a newborn child?

There is a tiny tube that runs from the lower lid of the eye into the nose. This is called the naso (nose) lacrimal (tear) duct. Occasionally an infant is born with some kind of narrowing of this tiny tube. The tears, instead of flowing into the nose, overflow on to the face.

In most instances this narrowing can be cured without surgery. The duct can be stretched with tiny instruments. This can be done painlessly if the condition doesn't clear up by itself.

This same condition can occur at any age. It may be caused by a chronic sinus infection, polyps in the nose or may be the result of a fracture of the bones of the face and the nose.

The duct can be probed and enlarged and, in most instances this is sufficient to relieve the tearing. When there is complete obstruction surgery can be performed through the nose and can be most gratifying in relieving a condition which is more annoying than serious.

Can chronic constipation ever cause an obstruction of the intestines?

It is possible but highly unlikely that constipation alone will cause an intestinal obstruction. Sometimes there can be a hard impaction in the lower bowel which is temporary and can be relieved by mineral oil and low enemas.

Intestinal obstruction is a far more serious condition. The blockage can be caused by tumors, adhesions, twisting of the bowel or a telescoping of the intestines.

Lions on Our Side

After talking with the Englishman John Owen, the director of the Tanzania national park system who was recently in the United States on a fundraising expedition to support his East African wild animal sanctuaries, I wrote a column to the effect that the lions were on the Free World's side. Meaning that if Tanzania were going to make anything out of the lions as a tourist attraction, President Nyerere would have to preserve his ties with countries that permit their citizens to travel and take good foreign exchange abroad.

This observation seems to have bothered Mr. Owen, who says that President Nyerere will do what he thinks best for his country, even to the extent of keeping an alignment with the "eastern bloc". But the question I raised is one of logic, not of "facts." The lions are still on our side, even though Nyerere could be making a prime mistake by failing to look at things from the lions' point of view. Tourism and Communism must in the nature of things, remain incompatible, and if he truly intends to do what is best for his country President Nyerere must eventually come around to this way of thinking.

There is an inherent contradiction between what the Tanzanian representatives say about the United States in the United Nations and what Mr. Owen was doing in this country on his fund-raising expedition to keep the lions and the wildebeests happy. Not too long ago a Tanzanian stood up at the UN to denounce the United States for planning to establish a park and construct a tourist hotel in Samoa. He suggested there was something sinister in this, arguing that the planned improvements in Samoa would not help the "indigenous inhabitants." Whereupon the U. S. representative rightly called it to Tanzania's attention that mainland Americans were barred from owning land in Samoa and were not permitted to engage in any business activity in which native Samoans did not have major participation.

These Things Constitute Happy Dreams; Becky Alkire Is Experiencing Them All

By MRS. MARION SINES

Miss Rebecca Alkire, "Miss American Teen-Ager," or just plain "Becky" to most of us, is now in Hollywood.

The many things she will see and do are what the average girl dreams about. Most of the fair sex here will follow her activities with pride and the feeling that she is accomplishing our dreams for us.

At the airport with her family prior to the California departure Becky was calm, confident and composed. When approached to make a tape recording for a Columbus radio station she very graciously said she would be happy to accommodate.

It was a great pleasure to watch her answer the reporter's questions clearly and without hesitation. She epitomized the American youth of today.

TRAVELING GIRL — Boarding a plane will be a common occurrence for Rebecca Alkire during the coming year. The "Miss American Teen-Ager" already has made many public appearances in connection with her national title. And there are plenty more to come. This picture was snapped prior to her flight to California for participation in Rose Bowl festival and other events.

Becky won her title Sept. 9 at Palisades Park, N.J. There were 230,000 entries in the contest and 70 finalists.

Along with the national honor, she received many gifts and special awards. Some of them are: a 1967 Dodge from the Dodge Division of Chrysler Corp., a trip to Hollywood and a guest appearance on the TV show "The Man from U.N.C.L.E.", an appearance in the "Tournament of Roses" parade and the title of a guest celebrity at the Rose Bowl football game.

What is Becky like? She is well educated in school, home and community. Both feet are on the ground, regardless of high heels and hair spray.

Her talents are varied and her beauty unquestionable. The common sense she possesses, along with an excellent sense of humor are essential factors behind the title she holds.

Becky uses her education and talents rather than just accepting the fact that she has them. She makes many of her clothes — not just by taking a pattern and following the written directions, but combining more than one pattern part to achieve the desired product.

Her grandmother, Mrs. Fairy Alkire, promoted Becky's desire to create with needle and thread. From this great help the teenage queen learned that sewing is not just cutting up a piece of yard goods and following the average methods. This is one of the things that makes her the real person she is.

Miss Alkire's many talents include cooking. Her ability in the field is not limited to just using standards found in cookbooks, but trying new combinations, that according to her mother, were "so far out" sometimes they were inedible.

Becky's parents own and operate the Pickaway Arms restaurant. This apparently helped stimulate her desire to prepare various foods. Her culinary creations, now that she has stopped experimenting so freely, would make most gourmets envious.

We are all looking forward to seeing her accomplishments as an actress. Even in the series "The Man From U.N.C.L.E." if she has just one line — such as "I don't know nuthin'" — I'm sure we will wish we could run the film back many times to see and hear it again.

The friendly Pickaway County lass, a freshman at Ohio State, will represent the Big 10 in the Rose Bowl Parade. She will ride on the Purdue University float, attired as a cheerleader.

Becky will be back to resume her normal activities on Jan. 4. Regardless of how she is accepted on the Coast, this community proudly claims her as "our" Becky — a wonderful girl.

Miss Alkire's bundle of activities since donning the Miss Teen-Ager crown seem almost overwhelming. But she is determined her studies at Ohio State will not be interrupted.

Her latest project has been to launch a nationwide drive in behalf of the American Cancer Society. Her motto is "Fight Cancer with a Checkup and a Check."

Becky is urging people

behind the title she holds.

Becky uses her education and talents rather than just accepting the fact that she has them. She makes many of her clothes — not just by taking a pattern and following the written directions, but combining more than one pattern part to achieve the desired product.

Her grandmother, Mrs. Fairy Alkire, promoted Becky's desire to create with needle and thread. From this great help the teenage queen learned that sewing is not just cutting up a piece of yard goods and following the average methods. This is one of the things that makes her the real person she is.

Miss Alkire's many talents include cooking. Her ability in the field is not limited to just using standards found in cookbooks, but trying new combinations, that according to her mother, were "so far out" sometimes they were inedible.

Becky's parents own and operate the Pickaway Arms restaurant. This apparently helped stimulate her desire to prepare various foods. Her culinary creations, now that she has stopped experimenting so freely, would make most gourmets envious.

We are all looking forward to seeing her accomplishments as an actress. Even in the series "The Man From U.N.C.L.E." if she has just one line — such as "I don't know nuthin'" — I'm sure we will wish we could run the film back many times to see and hear it again.

The friendly Pickaway County lass, a freshman at Ohio State, will represent the Big 10 in the Rose Bowl Parade. She will ride on the Purdue University float, attired as a cheerleader.

Becky will be back to resume her normal activities on Jan. 4. Regardless of how she is accepted on the Coast, this community proudly claims her as "our" Becky — a wonderful girl.

Miss Alkire's bundle of activities since donning the Miss Teen-Ager crown seem almost overwhelming. But she is determined her studies at Ohio State will not be interrupted.

Her latest project has been to launch a nationwide drive in behalf of the American Cancer Society. Her motto is "Fight Cancer with a Checkup and a Check."

Becky is urging people

TRAVELING GIRL — Boarding a plane will be a common occurrence for Rebecca Alkire during the coming year. The "Miss American Teen-Ager" already has made many public appearances in connection with her national title. And there are plenty more to come. This picture was snapped prior to her flight to California for participation in Rose Bowl festivity and other events.

Czech Tourists

PRAGUE (AP) — Over two million persons visited Czechoslovakia this tourist season, the news agency C.T.K. reported recently, saying 1.5 million came from Communist nations and 513,000 from Western countries, an increase of 21 per cent from last year.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buran

Grandparents Want Only To Please

DEAR ABBY: I don't want to sound ungrateful, but why do grandparents always buy clothing for their grandchildren two and three sizes too big for them? Often these items are needed for use immediately, but they must hang in a closet or be put away in a drawer until the child "grows into them."

Many a lovely gift has been stored away and forgotten, and by the time the child can wear it, it's out of style. Mention this in your column, Abby. But please don't use my name.

MRS. DEAR MRS.: The reason grandparents buy clothing for children to "grow into" is obvious. It's a hold over from leaner years. However, gift-giving grandparents want only to please. So a word to the wise should bring the right size.

DEAR ABBY: While walking down the street yesterday, I saw a mailman emptying one of those sidewalk mailboxes. A woman was standing there screaming that she had just mailed a letter in that box and she wanted it back. The mailman said he was sorry but it was against the rules and he couldn't give it to her.

She yelled even louder that she could prove it was HER letter and she wanted it back. Then he tried to tell her what she would have to do to get it, but she refused to listen — she stormed off in a huff. Now I would like to know how a person can get his own letter back after mailing it if the mailman won't give it to him.

INNOCENT BYSTANDER DEAR INNOCENT: Make a duplicate of the envelope of the letter you want back. If it was going out-of-town, go to the main postoffice. If it was a local letter, go to the postoffice in the zone in which you mailed the letter and ask the postmaster for the appropriate form to fill out to retrieve your letter.

If your letter hasn't left the postoffice, and you can identify yourself adequately, they'll give you your letter. If the letter HAS left town, they will telephone or wire the out-of-town postoffice (at your expense) and if it hasn't been delivered, they'll send the letter back to you.

But when it comes, you will have to go to the postoffice and pick it up personally. This may sound like a lot of red tape, for one who has mailed a letter in haste and wants it back.

DEAR ABBY: I telephoned an unmarried man-about-town and invited him to my home for a dinner party last Friday. He said he would be delighted to come, and before I had a chance to say another word, he said, "Do you mind if I bring Lulu?" (She is one of his many lady friends.) Well, I couldn't very well have told him not to bring her.

It spoiled my plan because the whole idea was to have him meet an unmarried girl friend of mine. My husband said I should have set him straight then and there. Would that have been proper? How should this have been handled?

SLOW THINKER DEAR SLOW: You should have invited him this way. "If you are free for dinner on Friday, I would like you to be the dinner partner of a friend of mine." That way you wouldn't have to say—"but don't bring Lulu."

CONFIDENTIAL TO "BIG DECISION IN BID D.: I can't think of a worse risk for marriage. If you "won" him, then what would you have? A two-timing husband who pulled every trick in the book to be with his girl friend while his wife sat at home alone. You have no guarantee that he would treat you any better than he treated his first wife.

Income Tax Forms Are Now in Mail

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service said Tuesday it has begun mailing 1966 income tax forms to about 65 million individual taxpayers. The distribution is scheduled for completion Jan. 5.

Taxpayers will receive in the mail copies of the same type form they filed for last year's taxes. About 43 million will receive the 1040 long form and instructions while 22 million will get the 1040A short-form package.

The IRS said copies of the forms will be available at its offices and many post offices and banks throughout the country shortly after the first of the year.

About half of the forms — those processed through IRS computers this year — will include attached labels with the taxpayer's name, address, and Social Security number. The IRS urged taxpayers to use these labels on the form they eventually file with the government to insure proper identification.

SALT CREEK

Doyle Miller, a student and Virgil Timmons a demit applicant from Logan Elm Grange, were elected to membership at the last session of Salt Creek Valley Grange for 1966. They will be administered the first and second degrees of the Order at the Jan. 3 meeting.

For the Home Economic Department, Mrs. Judson Beougher thanked those who helped with the December card party.

A contribution was sent Pleasant Twp. Grange for a brother-in-law.

Seasons greetings in rhyme were read from Pickaway County Extension Service.

Prompted by the current low of local dues and raises of state dues, the decision was made to raise the amount to $2.50 per year.

The beginning of the Christmas Program as arranged and supervised by the worthy lecturer Paul Dunkle, was "Special Problem Memories" by Mrs. Grace Anderson. Supporting carols cooperatively sung were alternated with the other program inclusions: — "Customs and Legends" by Mrs. Wayne Luckhart; "Christmas Non - Essentials" as reviewed by Mrs. Hoyt Timmons; team list making of 9 gift items beginning with the letters in Christmas; "The Day After Christmas" by Mrs. Leora Sayre.

Crystal Luckhart assisted with the gift exchange. For the special Salt Creek Grange Santa, Worthing Lecturer Francis Fraunfelder, presented Mr. Dunkle a gift in recognition of his many services over and above the call of duty. During the concluding Friendship Circle Mr. Dunkle gave a Seasonal Meditation and "Away in a Manger" was sung. Members in charge of the social hour were Mr. and Mrs. George Rihl, Bill Rihl and Francis Bowsher.

Pickaway Grange Report

SALT CREEK

Doyle Miller, a student and Virgil Timmons a demit applicant from Logan Elm Grange, were elected to membership at the last session of Saltcreek Valley Grange for 1966. They will be administered the first and second degrees of the Order at the Jan. 3 meeting.

For the Home Economic Department, Mrs. Judson Bougher thanked those who helped with the December card party.

A contribution was sent Pleasant Twp. Grange for a brother-in-need.

Seasons greetings in rhyme were read from Pickaway County Extension Service.

Prompted by the current low of local dues and raises of state dues, the decision was made to raise the amount to $2.50 per year.

The beginning of the Christmas Program as arranged and supervised by the worthy lecturer Paul Dunkle, was "Special Problem Memories" by Mrs. Grace Anderson. Supporting carols cooperatively sung were alternated with the other program inclusions: — "Customs and Legends" by Mrs. Wayne Luckhart; "Christmas Non - Essentials" as reviewed by Mrs. Hoyt Timmons; team list making of 9 gift items beginning with the letters in Christmas; "The Day After Christmas" by Mrs. Leora Sayre.

Crystal Luckhart assisted with the gift exchange. For the special Saltcreek Grange Santa, Worthy Lecturer Francis Fraunfelter, presented Mr. Dunkle a gift in recognition of his many services over and above the call of duty. During the concluding Friendship Circle Mr. Dunkle gave a Seasonal Meditation and "Away in a Manger" was sung.

Members in charge of the social hour were Mr. and Mrs. George Rihl, Bill Rihl and Francis Bowsher.

Lawyer Will Appeal Wortham's Sentence

MOSCOW (AP) — Buel Ray Wortham is generally relaxed and in good spirits, his lawyer said today while reporting progress on filing an appeal.

Fyodor S. Rozhdvestvensky said he expects to forward Wednesday an appeal of the three-year sentence of Wortham, 25, of North Little Rock, Ark. Wortham was convicted in Leningrad last week of illegal currency deals and theft.

Accurate 2-Week Weather Prediction Is 'Predicted'

By FRANK CAREY
WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States' weather chief predicted today that two-weeks-in-advance weather forecasts for any part of the world will be possible within 10 or 15 years.

They would predict the weather, fair or foul, for each day over that span, and could lead to enormous dollar savings.

Present-day capabilities of three-days-ahead forecasts even in the United States are pretty iffy, declared Dr. Robert M. White, chief of the government's Environmental Science Services Administration, which includes the Weather Bureau.

The improved prospect stems from a recently launched international effort called the "World Weather Program" in which he said all nations, including Russia and Red China, are cooperating.

The long-range effort — planned by the World Meteorological Organization, a specialized agency of the United Nations — aims at marshaling sophisticated computers, weather-eye satellites and new concepts in atmospheric probing in a coordinated effort.

The program envisions not only improved and larger-range weather forecasts but possibly even breakthroughs toward weather control, Dr. White and several American associates said in reports to the 133rd meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

"It may be conservative to say," declared White, "that through a world weather program, our nation (alone) can realize economic benefits exceeding $1 billion annually. And, if weather and climate modification can be achieved on a substantial scale, the benefits to humanity will surpass all our imaginings."

He said that at present, weather hazards kill between 1,200 and 1,300 Americans, and cause more than $11 billion in agricultural and other economic losses every year.

How Weather Looks Today

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather:

A winter storm moving north-eastward up the Ohio River Valley sent snow, freezing rain and sleet into Ohio Tuesday night.

Snow accumulations amounted to as much as several inches in the central and western Ohio counties by dawn today.

Early this morning conditions varied widely across the state. Cleveland was cloudy and reported 22 degrees, Columbus was snowing with a 26 degree temperature and Chesapeake had freezing rain and 31 degrees.

Snow or snow flurries was predicted for tonight and Thursday and it will turn a little colder.

CENTRAL OHIO — Light snow flurries tonight and Thursday. Low tonight near 28. High Thursday about 32.

NORTHWEST AND NORTHEAST OHIO — Precipitation changing to snow or snow flurries tonight. Low in the upper 20s. Mostly cloudy with snow flurries and little temperature change Thursday.

The World Today

By BARRY SCHWEID
WASHINGTON (AP) — Liberal critics of the Supreme Court — and there are some — may be a little premature in writing off the 1966-67 term as one in which the justices swung toward conservatism or backed off big issues.

True, the justices were unwilling this year to plunge into a squabble over the traditional exemption of church property from taxation, to say whether the right to counsel applies in minor criminal cases or even to deal with organized baseball's hallowed immunity from antitrust law.

And decisions approving convictions of Negro civil rights demonstrators, the use of a paid government informer to help convict Teamsters Union President FET Hoffa of jury tampering and selection of Georgia's next governor by a legislature held malapportioned did not ring bells in liberal circles.

But the term is not even half over and three cases the justices already have decided to hear have within them the seeds of activist rulings that have made the Warren court anathema to conservatives.

Two are at the very nerve center of civil rights emotions: housing discrimination and bans on some states on racially mixed marriages. The third, electronic eavesdropping, is critically important to civil libertarians — and prosecutors.

California realtors will be attacking a California Supreme Court decision that voided a voters-approved ban on open housing laws.

If the California court is upheld, the justices may lay down a broad finding that the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution either bars housing discrimination or at least requires states to act to bar legislated discrimination.

The same amendment's guarantee of equal protection under the law may serve to strike down Virginia's ban on interracial marriage and, by extension, similar laws in 17 other states.

Two years ago, when the justices had a chance to throw out the Florida interracial marriage ban, they ducked, although they invalidated a state law which prohibited cohabitation between persons of different races.

An appeal from the Virginia antimiscegenation law, filed on behalf of a mixed couple by the American Civil Liberties Union, appears broad enough to provide a basis for junking such laws in the 18 states — if the justices are of a mind to.

The eavesdropping appeal before the court also may be broad enough for the justices to expand the area covered by the search-and-seizure provisions of the Fourth Amendment.

But they could confine their ruling to narrower grounds: In this case whether New York City prosecutors made an adequate showing of "probable cause" when they obtained state court permission to "bug" a suspect in a liquor license scandal.

Until the decisions in these three cases come down, the jury judging the justices may well be considered out.

New Type of Criminal Is Product of Affluence

WASHINGTON, (AP) — America's increasingly affluent society has produced the "Careless American" and made easy pickings for an overlooked, "normal" type of crook, a New York criminologist said Tuesday.

Michael Fooner, chairman of the metropolitan crime prevention project of the American Society of Criminology, offered the view in a report to the 133rd meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

He said that while it has always been assumed that poverty is a primary cause of crime, the facts are that crime is growing at an unprecedented rate in the United States where "prosperity has reached unprecedented heights, and poverty is decreasing."

There is growing evidence to suggest, Fooner said, that there is a pattern of criminality "that seems to correspond to affluence rather than poverty."

Specifically, he indicated, the victims and potential victims have been lured into carelessness as regards guarding their growing bounty—such as carrying a lot of cash negligently in a handbag or leaving keys in their automobile—and are increasingly offering temptation and opportunity to thieves.

Moreover, he said, most of the persons taking advantage of this appear to be a largely overlooked breed of seemingly normal citizens who themselves are motivated to crime by their own past experience "in substantial sharing the rewards of our national economic progress."

Burglary and thefts of various types constitute some 90 percent of all crime on the national index, Fooner said.

Castro Secure as 9th Year Begins

By ISAAC M. FLORES
HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro begins his ninth year in power more firmly in command of this island nation than ever before.

His personal popularity may have dipped a bit since Jan. 1, 1959, when the bearded mountain rebel emerged victorious over dictator Fulgencio Batista, but he has more than compensated for it with an iron-grip control over what he calls the "proletariat masses." Castro's Communist dictatorship has already survived longer than Batista's rule.

Barring any violent incident, political observers here see no alternative to Castro communism in this restless Caribbean island's immediate future. They see little bases for persistent speculation outside the country that the 40-year-old "maximum leader's" regime is teetering on the edge of disaster.

There appears to be little chance for internal subversion. Attack from the outside looks unfeasible in this age of push-button global warfare.

And, helping to solidify Castro's position, the country's economy seems on the verge of better days despite a commercial shipping blockade, low sugar prices and the creeping pace of industrialization.

While there is discontent with the regime, no organized militant resistance against it is evident.

Castro's security system maintains a vise-like control over the country's eight million inhabitants. It includes nearly 100,000 militia men and women, young Communist and Communist party members, militant women's groups, state employees, students, secret police and the toughest military organization in Latin America. This apparatus is reason enough for Castro communism's expected long life here, but there are others.

Perhaps the key lies in the slow but significant downward movement of the economy.

Cuba's chaotic status over the past eight years has given Castro some reason to believe that it would be the cause of his downfall. Though still alive, those expectations are fading with the regime's tottery climb out of the economic gutter.

Much of the credit is due to the huge injections of money, equipment and technical aid from the Soviet Union. But Castro's determination can't be discounted. His lowers of persuasion are the country's main driving force.

Frenchman Who Saved 176 Americans Dies

PARIS (AP) — Andre Bergeret, 63, a French war hero who once saved the lives of 176 American sailors, died Tuesday.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt awarded Bergeret the Legion of Merit.

The giraffe's small cousin, the okapi, was almost unknown to science before 1900. Since then, this shy native of dense African forests has become a familiar sight in zoos.

They were identified as Donald Souders of Hamden, Robert and Gary Stabler of Wellston and Edward Fladt of Wilmington.

As commander of a corvette in the North Atlantic July 7, 1942, Bergeret picked his way through a minefield to rescue the sailors whose ship had been blown up by mines. For this,

President Franklin D. Roosevelt awarded Bergeret the Legion of Merit.

The giraffe's small cousin, the okapi, was almost unknown to science before 1900. Since then, this shy native of dense African forests has become a familiar sight in zoos.

Cowboy Defense Seen Key Factor In NFL Playoff

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Dallas 21, Green Bay 3. Bob Hayes beats Herb Adderley twice on TD passes from Don Meredith. Bart Starr completes only six of 21 passes and is intercepted twice. Hayes runs 85 yards with a punt return but the touchdown is wiped out by a penalty.

No, this is no prediction. This is what happened Aug. 20 before a sellout crowd of 75,504 in the Cotton Bowl. It was only an exhibition game but it gave the Cowboys the idea they can handle the Packers Sunday in the National Football League title game.

"I'm sure they put a lot of emphasis on the game," said Coach Vince Lombardi of the Packers after the contest. "But that's no alibi. We certainly didn't come down here to lose. They looked great."

Defenses controlled that summer game just as they probably will dominate Sunday's big one at the Cotton Bowl. The Cowboys dropped Starr and his backup man, Zeke Bratkowski,

Green Bay Ready For Anything Now

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Green Bay Packer quarterback Bart Starr, whose accomplishments on the gridiron are well known, unveiled a new talent Tuesday: weather forecasting.

"I believe it's going to blow out," Starr said after peering into the gloomy skies, which according to the Weather Bureau, were preparing to dump four inches or more of snow and further hamper Green Bay's preparations for their National Football League championship encounter Sunday with the Dallas Cowboys.

The weather bureau got the message about 10 hours later and called off its heavy snow warning and said only a slight chance of snow remained.

The Packers conducted a lengthy drill Tuesday in the rain at Skelly Stadium.

Youth Baseball Meet Scheduled January 9

The Circleville Youth Baseball Board of Directors meeting, normally scheduled the first Monday of each month, has been scheduled for Jan. 9.

The session has been postponed one week by William Thomas, president, because of the New Year's Holiday. The group will meet 8 p. m. at the Pick-away County Fairgrounds.

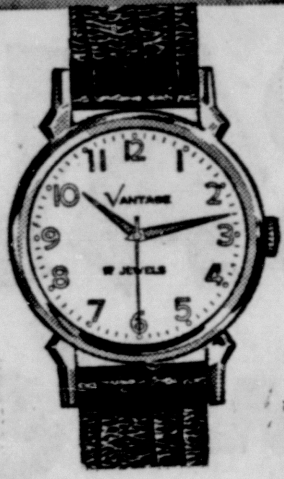

Browns Sign Rookie From Massachusetts

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Browns have signed Bob Ellis of the University of Massachusetts — the Browns' 15th draft choice as a red shirt last season.

The Browns said Ellis, who was a teammate of Milt Morin for two seasons, is primarily a defensive halfback with good speed. He has been clocked at 4.5 seconds for the 40-yard dash.

Rugged Battle Faces Tiger Quintet at Wilmington

By STEVE JONES

The Circleville High School basketball team can anticipate a rugged battle Thursday night at Wilmington in a South Central Ohio League game.

Al Burger, dean of SCO cage coaches, gets a lot of mileage out of his cagers. He relies on offensive ball control tactics and a sticky man-to-man defense.

In winning the first annual Clinton County Holiday Tournament last week, Wilmington utilized stalling tactics for the last 11 minutes of the championship game.

Wilmington started the year with only one regular back from last year's SCO title winning quintet. He is Tim Rudduck, a diminutive 5-8 guard who guides the Hurricane floor game.

OTHER cagers who saw considerable varsity action last year include John Petty, a 6-3 junior who played at all positions, and Roger Vaughn, a senior.

Bill Peele, a fierce competitor or at 6-1, has added strength to the Wilmington squad.

Although comparatively inexperienced at the beginning of the season, the Clinton Countyans are now seasoned with eight games behind them. The Hurricane has won five of these tilts.

Ohio Girl's Team Tennis Match Loser

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The team of Connie Capozzi, Middletown, Ohio, and Linda Tuero, Metairie, La., was eliminated Tuesday in the quarterfinals of the Orange Bowl Tennis Championships.

They lost 6-4, 6-2 to Linda Berry and Kathy Dombof of Kalamazoo, Mich., in the girls 16-and-under division.

Tied for second in the league race with Greenfield McClain, both are 2-1 in the SCO, the Hurricane has lost only to league leading Miami Trace, 55-51, on the road.

With such tall timber as Petty, brawny 6-3½ Chuck Kibbey, 6-5 Tim Parks and Peele, the small Circleville Tiger cagers will have their hands full once again. But for Coach Chuck Hill's little bunch, giving up inches per man in size is no new experience.

Every team the Tigers have played have been able to put at least one man on the floor taller than 6-0 Danny Speakman, the Tiger pivot.

CIRCLEVILLE has been idle since Dec. 17 when the Tigers traveled to Washington C. H. to gain a 59-41 SCO victory, the first loop win of the season for the Red and Black.

Other wins for CHS include a

70-40 decision over Westfall and a 56-54 squeaker over Reynoldsburg.

Tim Stonerock with a total of 170 points is Circleville's leading scorer. Dan Speakman with 88 is the next most productive offensive player in the Tiger lineup.

Jeff Steele, who earned a starting berth after the first few games of the season, has notched 45 markers. Dan Gibbs has 42 and Joe Winner 38.

Scott McFarland has collected 20 markers thus far this season. Sam Martinelli who also sees a lot of action has 10. Bob Tootle four and Dave Horst two. The Tigers have "been looking real good in practice", according to Hill.

SPEAKMAN, Winner, Gibbs, Stonerock and Steele have tentatively been tabbed for starting roles at Wilmington.

McFarland, Rick Congrove and

Craig Lambert have shown considerable improvement during practice and could see a lot of action in the tilt.

Of Lambert, Coach Hill says:

Barry, Chamberlain
Remain NBA Leaders

NEW YORK (AP) — The perpetual leaders, San Francisco's Rick Barry and Philadelphia's Wilt Chamberlain, continue to dominate in the National Basketball Association statistics.

Barry scored 80 points in two games last week, raising his league leading scoring total to 1,280. He made 18 of 19 foul shots, boosting his leading free throw percentage to .893, league statistics released today revealed.

Chamberlain, second in scoring with 843 points, continues to lead in field goal percentage with .690 and in rebounds with 836. He also improved his third place position in assists by raising

"If he ever starts hitting the basket, he will be in the starting lineup. Right now he is one of our better players in other respects."

"I think we will be able to do some things we weren't able to do last year," Hill noted. Last season the Hurricane was able to contain Stonerock's scoring.

Defensively, the Hurricane uses a man-to-man style, double teaming the ball whenever possible.

In other action involving league teams this week, Hillsboro plays in the Lebanon Holiday tournament Wednesday and Thursday and Waverly is at Washington C. H.

In going scoreless the last 23 innings of the 1966 World Series the Dodgers failed to capitalize on 5 hits and 7 walks.

ing his average to 7.2 on a total of 253.

five times for losses of 57 yards, intercepted three passes and recovered two fumbles.

Cowboy fans take heart in the memory of that game when Packer backers sound off about climbing all over the Dallas team from the Eastern Conference.

Dallas residents also recall another exhibition game in 1965 when the Cowboys held the Packers without a touchdown and won 21-12. Green Bay had to settle for three field goals by Don Chandler and one by Paul Hornung that August evening.

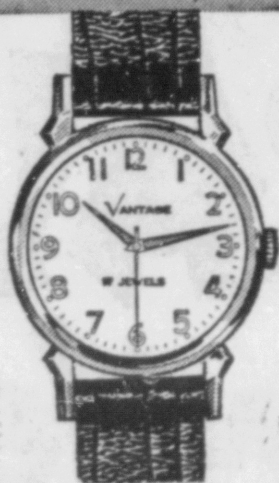

The Packers never have lost a regular season game to the Cowboys in four meetings since Dallas joined the NFL. In fact, they hold an 8-2 edge in all games, including the exhibition.

Dallas must be planning some surprises for Lombardi's men because they are holding closed workouts this week with even the press barred from the field.

Cowboy Tom Landry meets newsmen twice a day and makes his players available for interviews but there is a dark secret even deep in the Heart of Texas.

They lost 6-4, 6-2 to Linda Berry and Kathy Dombof of Kalamazoo, Mich., in the girls 16-and-under division.

Tied for second in the league race with Greenfield McClain, both are 2-1 in the SCO, the Hurricane has lost only to league leading Miami Trace, 55-51, on the road.

With such tall timber as Petty, brawney 6-3½ Chuck Kibbey, 6-5 Tim Parks and Peele, the small Circleville Tiger cagers will have their hands full once again. But for Coach Chuck Hill's little bunch, giving up inches per man in size is no new experience.

Every team the Tigers have played have been able to put at least one man on the floor taller than 6-0 Danny Speakman, the Tiger pivot.

CIRCLEVILLE has been idle since Dec. 17 when the Tigers traveled to Washington C. H. to gain a 59-41 SCO victory, the first loop win of the season for the Red and Black.

Other wins for CHS include a

70-40 decision over Westfall and a 56-54 squeaker over Reynoldsburg.

Tim Stonerock with a total of 170 points is Circleville's leading scorer. Dan Speakman with 88 is the next most productive offensive player in the Tiger lineup.

Jeff Steele, who earned a starting berth after the first few games of the season, has notched 45 markers. Dan Gibbs has 42 and Joe Winner 38.

Scott McFarland has collected 20 markers thus far this season, Sam Martindill who also sees a lot of action has 10, Bob Tootle four and Dave Horst two. The Tigers have "been looking real good in practice", according to Hill.

SPEAKMAN, Winner, Gibbs, Stonerock and Steele have tentatively been tabbed for starting roles at Wilmington.

McFarland, Rick Congrove and

Craig Lambert have shown considerable improvement during practice and could see a lot of action in the tilt.

Of Lambert, Coach Hill says:

Barry, Chamberlain Remain NBA Leaders

NEW YORK (AP) — The perpetual leaders, San Francisco's Rick Barry and Philadelphia's Wilt Chamberlain, continue to dominate in the National Basketball Association statistics.

Barry scored 80 points in two games last week, raising his league leading scoring total to 1,280. He made 18 of 19 foul shots, boosting his leading free throw percentage to .893, league statistics released today revealed.

Chamberlain, second in scoring with 843 points, continues to lead in field goal percentage with .690 and in rebounds with 836. He also improved his third place position in assists by rais-

"If he ever starts hitting the basket, he will be in the starting lineup. Right now he is one of our better players in other respects."

"I think we will be able to do some things we weren't able to do last year," Hill noted. Last season the Hurricane was able to contain Stonerock's scoring.

Defensively, the Hurricane uses a man-to-man style, double teaming the ball whenever possible.

In other action involving league teams this week, Hillsboro plays in the Lebanon Holiday tournament Wednesday and Thursday and Waverly is at Washington C. H.

In going scoreless the last 23 innings of the 1966 World Series the Dodgers failed to capitalize on 5 hits and 7 walks.

ing his average to 7.2 on a total of 253.

Louisville Takes Niagara in Cage Tourney Opener

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Niagara may never face UCLA on the basketball court, but its coach, Jim Maloney, thinks his team may have been beaten by the best team in the nation.

"Louisville," said Maloney, "has got one of the best clubs I've seen in a long time."

It may be that Maloney was making allowances for Louisville's having beaten Niagara 98-73 in a first-round game at the Quaker City tournament at Philadelphia, but Lew Alcindor and Co. notwithstanding, he may be right at that.

Wes Unseld, the 6-8 junior who is making a serious bid for All-America recognition, scored 20 points and hauled in 26 rebounds for Louisville, No. 2 in the Associated Press poll.

In other games in the tournament, Villanova upset 10th-ranked Michigan State, 66-63, behind a tough zone defense, Princeton beat Bowling Green 87-73 and Syracuse took LaSalle 88-84.

UCLA was idle during the first night of competition in the Los Angeles Basketball Classic but Illinois beat Arizona 93-77, 22 points by Dave Scholtz and Southern California took Arkansas 70-67 with Bill Hewitt scoring 25 points for the Trojans.

In first-round games at the Motor City Classic at Detroit, Miami of Ohio held Western Michigan to a record low for the event of 45 points and won a 51-45 decision. Fred Foster had 24 points for Miami. Tulane beat host Detroit, 98-94 after coming back from a 12-point deficit at halftime.

In the Hurricane Classic at Miami Beach, Fla., Western Kentucky moved past Holy Cross 90-84 with Clem Haskins and Dwight Smith each scoring 23 points. Ed Siudt of Holy Cross had 37 points. Miami upset Pennsylvania 82-78 with Mike Wittman scoring 32 points.

New Mexico State had a surprisingly easy time with Rutgers in the Evansville College tournament at Evansville, Ind. The Aggies outran Rutgers 80-58, with John Gambill scoring 22 points. William and Mary beat host Evansville 74-72 on a jump shot from 10 feet out by Ben 'Omery with two seconds left in the game.

Stanford beat DePaul 88-75 in the All-College Basketball Tournament at Oklahoma City with sophomore Don Griffin scoring 28 points. Oklahoma City took Massachusetts 89-82 with Gary Grey's 29 points leading the way.

Iowa State won a first-round game at the Big Eight tournament in Kansas City, beating Oklahoma State 64-56. John McGinagle scored 24 points. Kansas State beat Nebraska 98-81 behind 29 points for Dennis Berg-holtz and 26 for Earl Seyfert.

Oregon State, champion of the Far West Classic for 10 years, lost an opening-round game to Indiana 71-60 at the Portland, Ore., tournament. Washington surprised St. Louis University 91-82 behind 23 points for Dave Carr.

In non-tournament action, third-ranked North Carolina pounded Furman 101-56.

New York's Holiday Festival resumes tonight with Providence meeting Northwestern and Rhode Island facing St. Joseph's of Philadelphia in semifinal games.

3 Ohio College Squads Lose In Out-of-State Playoffs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The holiday atmosphere was deadened by losses for three of the four Ohio college basketball teams that opened play in out-of-state Christmas tournaments Tuesday night.

The only winner in the bunch was Miami, a 56-44 victor over fellow Mid-American Conference entry Western Michigan in Detroit's Motor City event. Bowling Green, Capital and Otterbein were the losers.

And Xavier's stopover en route to a West Coast tournament resulted in a dismal night in Utah — a 107-88 ambush at the hands of Utah State.

The Aggie scoring attack was led by Bob Click and Luther Rackley who picked up 52 points between them, Click getting 27 and Rackley 25.

Bowling Green left its top rebounder, Al Dixon, home for disciplinary reasons and lost 87-73 to Princeton in the Quaker City Tournament.

St. Cloud State of Minnesota, host team in the Granite Classic, held Otterbein's Little All-America Don Carlos to 13 points in a 58-56 squeaker settled on Terry Porter's free throws in the closing seconds.

Augustana of Illinois came back from a 36-31 halftime deficit to beat Capital 76-66 in the Lutheran Welfare Tournament in Chicago.

Baldwin-Wallace and Ohio Northern moved into tonight's finals in the B-W tourney with high-scoring victories. The host Yellow Jackets downed Edinboro State 102-70. Northern also scored 102 points, holding Wals to 88.

Q. Is it true that some persons have a keener sense of smell than others?
A. Yes. The odor-sensing nerve-cells show a wide range of sensitivity among different persons. A perfume expert with a highly developed sense of smell can detect the individual odors in a mixture of nine different scents. Generally speaking, however, the sense of smell is more limited and less important in man than in lower animals. But even in man, survival could depend on recognizing odor resulting from a gas leak!

LEMON BLEACH

Q. Is it safe to bleach the teeth with lemon juice?
A. No. There is no safe way to "bleach" teeth. Lemon juice and other highly acid beverages, liquids, or medicaments can, in fact, cause erosion of the teeth. People who frequently use lemons often show pitting of the tooth enamel. In severe cases the total enamel cap may be lost.

Not What He's Supposed To Be

Bills' New 'Toe' Losing His Touch

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — In the last couple of weeks, Booth Lusteg, Buffalo's pickup place kicker, has lost his distance and his identity.

But the first problem may be only the result of the second since Lusteg has turned out to be his brother.

And his brother never could kick.

Lusteg, it develops, is not

Wallace Lusteg, the 25-year-old graduate of Boston College, as he claimed when he wrote the Bills for a tryout after Pete Gogolak played out his option and signed with the New York Giants.

Lusteg, it develops, is really Jerry Lusteg, a 27-year-old graduate of the University of Connecticut.

Why the deception? "I feel bad about this and I never expected to keep it a secret forever," Lusteg said by way of explaining. "I did it to play football and hoped I could keep it quiet until I was established."

"People will think my integrity isn't too valuable, but I've never lied about anything else. I only did this because I was afraid the Bills wouldn't give me a chance if they knew I was a 27-year-old rookie."

So everything else remains the same — his unorthodox training methods, his background as an honor student, bit-part actor, waiter and place-kicker. Except that when he lost his identity a couple of weeks ago, he also seemed to lose his distance.

In the last two games against Boston and Denver, Lusteg has made only two of five field goal attempts — the longest from 16 yards out.

And that concerns Coach Joe Collier much more than Lusteg's identity as he prepares the Bills for Sunday's American Football League championship game against the Kansas City Chiefs.

"I would think the problem would probably be the length of the season," Collier said. "He hasn't been kicking that many years. He's still in the learning process as far as training methods are concerned and he worked so darn hard throughout the season — why any athlete who does will get stale."

So Collier has made Lusteg taper off and will watch him carefully as he warms up before game time Sunday.

Aussies Keep Davis Cup

Thwart Challenge From Indian Team

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Australia has retained the Davis Cup, the top prize in amateur tennis, for the third straight year after a determined bid by upstart India.

Roy Emerson, the Aussies' ace, clinched the Cup by beating Ramanathan Krishnan 6-0, 6-2, 10-8 in Wednesday's opening singles match. Fred Stolle then completed the Australian triumph by outlasting game Jai-deep Mukerjee 7-5, 6-8, 6-3, 5-7, 6-3.

The Australians, who have won the Davis Cup in seven of the last eight years and 14 of the last 17, were expected to clinch it easily after Emerson and Stolle had swept their opening singles matches Monday.

But the Indians came back with a stunning upset in Tuesday's doubles, beating Tony Roche and John Newcombe, possibly the world's best team. Krishnan and Mukerjee turned in the victory after dropping the first set.

Still India's chances seemed doomed and Emerson ended any hopes the underdogs might have entertained, beating Krishnan. Then Stolle whipped the determined Mukerjee.

The Indians were making their first Challenge Round appearance after disposing of Brazil in the Inter-zone finals. Brazil had eliminated the United States in the American Zone finals.

A crowd of 10,000 jammed Kooyong Stadium in humid, 90-degree heat to watch the final two singles. About 300 people required medical attention because of the heat and hundreds others left the stands for shaded areas.

BASEBALL'S LOSINGEST CITY?

PHILADELPHIA...THE PHILLIES FINISHED LAST 23 YEARS AND THE OLD ATHLETICS DID IT 18 SEASONS...THEY SHARED THE CELLAR IN THEIR RESPECTIVE LEAGUES TEN TIMES, BEFORE THE AS MOVED TO KANSAS CITY!

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer NEW YORK (AP) — In the television world there are two categories of successful shows. There is the genuine hit, the kind the public samples, likes and will follow to a new time period and a new night in the schedule.

"Gomer Pyle" is an example. Last season it had high Nielsen ratings on a Friday evening. This season it is doing even better on Wednesday nights.

There are also the shows, counted as successful, that beat their competition on the other networks. Some pretty dreadful shows are hits merely because the opposition was even worse.

"Gilligan's Island" was a hit last season when it was on a Thursday night opposite "Gidget." This season it was moved to Monday nights, found real competition in "The Monkees," and "The Iron Horse," and dropped like a stone in the ratings.

Programs with weak competition are in what the trade calls "a soft spot." The happiest position for a fledgling show used to be opposite CBS' Tuesday night news hour, which while excellent, almost always has small audiences.

NBC's movie reruns have become so popular that "The Fugitive," a Nielsen front-runner for several seasons, has slipped to a point where it is doubtful Dr. Kimble will still be on the lam next season.

Sometimes the success of a program is pegged on other circumstances that have little to do with dramatic or entertainment qualities.

"Daktari" on Tuesday nights, is one of these. As drama, the show is about as realistic and meaningful as "Batman."

But "Daktari" abounds in shots of delightful animals — a sweet, patient cross-eyed lion, a funny little chimp and many other nonhuman but lovable guest stars. Probably few viewers pay much attention to the silly stories.

Besides, its competition is "Combat," a war series that had several fine seasons but lately has tried to cover up lack of good scripts by filling much of each episode with the good American infantrymen firing guns at the bad Germans. The other shows "The Girl from U.N.C.L.E." which was too little and too late an entry in the secret agent derby.

The result is that the animal show is in Nielsen's top 20 shows. The other two are in the lower half of the list.

Bowl Workout Shows Florida QB Bit Rusty

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Since Steve Spurrier fired his last pass under pressure more than a month ago, he has become the nation's most honored football player.

Along with days of final examinations, the Florida quarterback has been called upon to make numerous speeches and television appearances and to grant countless interviews.

After the month of such pressures, can the Heisman Trophy winner be at his best when the Gators meet Georgia Tech in the Orange Bowl game?

This question probably was foremost in the mind of Coach Ray Graves as he took his team into a secret Miami workout Tuesday and said the field would be off limits to public and press until Thursday.

In five days of practice at Gainesville after the players waded through exams, Spurrier showed the effects of the idleness and the many distractions. He was rusty.

And after Tuesday's workouts, Graves said the timing of the team on pass plays "so important in our type of offense" was off.

But Graves is confident that the 21-year-old Spurrier, the greatest clutch quarterback who ever came his way, will shake off the effects of the weeks in the limelight and come through as usual.

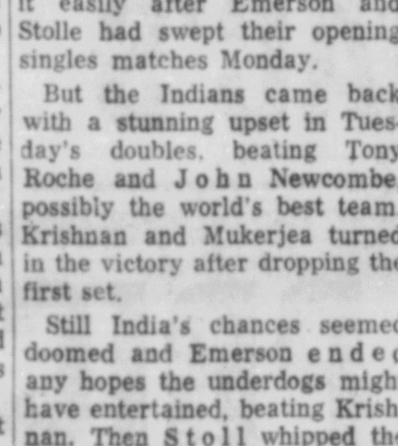

The Georgia Tech team, a slight favorite, will fly into Miami Thursday. Coach Bobby Dodd said all the Yellow Jacket workouts here would be open to the general public.

Pick Ohio Natives East-West Captains

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Halfback Clint Jones of Michigan State and linebacker Jim Lynch of Notre Dame, both All-Americans, will be co-captains of the East in the annual East-West football game Saturday. Jones is from Cleveland, Ohio, Lynch from Lima, Ohio.

Church Seminar Formed To Help Draft Opponents

DETROIT (AP) — An interfaith seminar on how youth can avoid the fighting in Vietnam opens at Detroit's Central Methodist church today.

Sponsored by a group calling itself the Committee of Citizens for Peace in Vietnam, the day-long meeting includes workshops for draft-age youth on various aspects of the Selective Service System.

A rally protesting U.S. involvement in the Vietnam war will climax the meeting.

"We expect 7 to 15 people at each of the seven workshops," said the Rev. George Colman, a member of the committee and a Presbyterian minister.

The Rev. Mr. Colman said he had received calls from people who said they planned to attend the rally and "find out just what these kids are doing with their draft protests."

"This should provide some opposition comment," he said.

The Rev. David M. Gracie, rector of Detroit's St. Joseph Episcopal church and a committee member, said last week that the sponsors "are not advocating draft dodging."

The Rev. Mr. Gracie said that the meeting was a public forum designed to let draft-eligible youth know where they stand with the law if they plan to oppose the draft with other than conscientious objector status.

Men opposed to war and killing have little difficulty gaining conscientious-objector status, he said, but "the guy who believes this particular war-but not all wars—is unjust, is going to be faced with a complex problem."

The workshops feature attorneys who have handled Selective Service cases, clergymen who have counseled conscientious objectors, and students who have been involved in peace protests.

Other Detroit clergy on the sponsoring committee are the Rev. Maurice Geary, a Roman Catholic; the Rev. James Laird, retiring pastor of Central Methodist Church; the Rev. James Bristah, of the Methodist Church's Social Action Division, and the Rev. Eugene Ransom, a Methodist minister in nearby Ann Arbor.

Home Buyers Face Record Rates of Interest Now

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tight money, a major weakness in a generally strong economy this year, is easing rapidly but the potential home buyer still faces the highest interest rates on record.

But the home loan peak may be near, with more normal costs and greater availability of loans possibly just around the corner.

Indications of the easing, and a prediction of further easing next year, came at a fast clip Tuesday, capped by an announcement from the Federal Reserve Board of an end to a policy begun last September aimed at restricting bank lending to business.

The board said current credit

Goldwater's Mother Dies At Age 91

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Josephine Goldwater, 91, matriarch of a pioneer merchant family that produced a Republican candidate for president, died at her home Tuesday.

She outlived her husband, Baron, by 37 years.

Their three children included Barry Goldwater, who was twice elected to the U.S. Senate before losing the 1964 presidential election to Lyndon B. Johnson.

Another son is board chairman and chief executive officer of Goldwater Department Stores, a chain in central Arizona.

Still alert but in failing health since she broke her hip in a fall Aug. 24, she died in the North-east Phoenix home where Barry and Robert Goldwater, her sons, and Carolyn Erskine, her daughter, grew up.

When his mother died, Barry Goldwater and his wife were flying to Hawaii for a tour of the Far East. A turn-around flight was arranged to return them to Arizona.

Private funeral services will be held Thursday followed by burial in the family mausoleum.

Bombing Policy To Remain Same

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top-level U.S. sources say there is no point in changing U.S. bombing policies in North Vietnam despite controversy surrounding a Pentagon admission that some civilians have been hit.

The officials said it is necessary to bomb military targets in order to raise the price to North Vietnam of aggression against South Vietnam and to save lives of Americans and others fighting the Communists.

The Pentagon acknowledged Monday night that attacks on military targets have inflicted civilian casualties but said "it is impossible to avoid all damage" to residential areas dotted with military targets.

The Pentagon response was to a story by Harrison E. Salisbury, an assistant managing editor of the New York Times, who reported from North Vietnam that he saw "block after block of utter desolation" on one town and learned of 89 civilian deaths in another.

The implicit declaration by the U.S. officials that there is no review of bombing policy pending appeared certain to be challenged soon after Congress convenes Jan. 10.

Sen. J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and critic of U.S. policy in the war, plans hearings on the subject. Fulbright aides said Tuesday they have no doubt he will call on Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Secretary of

Cuba, Bulgaria Increase Trade

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A new agreement calls for a 22 per cent increase in trade between Cuba and Bulgaria, Havana radio reports.

The report said Cuba will ship sugar and molasses to the Eastern European country and will receive in turn farm machinery, canned foods and other industrial products.

State Dean Rusk for detailed reports on the bombings.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, however, supported the Pentagon contention that any civilian casualties were unintentional.

"Is there anyplace in the world where there are no civilians?" Eisenhower asked newsmen as he left a hospital.

"I know U.S. operations are aimed exclusively at military targets but unfortunately there are some civilians around these targets."

Salisbury in a dispatch published in the Times today said he had inspected an unmanned U.S. reconnaissance plane that was shot down over Hanoi Christmas Day and crashed about 12 miles northeast of the city.

Salisbury said North Vietnamese officials escorted members of the foreign press corps to view the drone's wreckage Tuesday. He said it was "a Ryan model with a wingspread of about 18 feet that the Americans call the Firebee."

Salisbury said the robot plane was reported at an altitude of about one mile when it was shot down near the main rail line linking Hanoi to Red China. The plane presumably had been gathering information on rail conditions and traffic movements.

On the way to the site of the wreckage, Salisbury said, the caravan crossed the Paul Doumer Bridge the populous approaches of which he reported earlier were hit by U.S. planes on Dec. 14.

"It appeared from this trip across the bridge that bombing on Dec. 14 was directed at its approaches and fell short in each case, striking residential quarters," he said. "The bombs dropped in the Hoan Kiem and Gialien and Yenvien quarters."

An American communique on the Dec. 14 raids had said the target was the Yenvien rail yards.

"Some bombs certainly fell along the railroad," Salisbury said. "But there are large numbers of apartment houses close by, and one after another was blasted out."

Pair of Super-Specials Offered as Yearend Fare

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The year's end has brought a brace of super-specials for moviegoers—"The Sand Pebbles" and "Grand Prix," filmed for a total cost of $22 million. Both seem to be winners.

Epics seem to arrive in pairs nowadays. One week in autumn brought premieres of two films with religious themes, "Hawaii" and "The Bible." Despite poor reviews, both seem to be faring well at the box office, especially "Hawaii."

Now we have a couple of high-powered adventures, and they have been made by expert and loving hands. Robert Wise, who created the most popular movie of all time, "The Sound of Music," deals with different matters in "The Sand Pebbles." This time he depicts war, is sometimes revolution, as if in answer to critics who assailed "The Sound of Music" as saccharine.

The setting is 1926 China. The figures in the foreground are the crew members of an American gunboat, the San Pablo, which attempts to protect the lives of missionaries and other Americans caught in the internal strife.

Wise makes full use of the Chinese landscapes — actually Taipei and Hong Kong. But he is also an actor's director, and he draws from Steve McQueen a beautifully sustained and naturalistic performance. The rest of the cast performs with skill, and Candice Bergen in her first big role proves she has star quality.

"The Sand Pebbles" suffers the malady of all film epics, over-length. The message, which has something to do with the dangers of nationalism and the futility of war, is sometimes clouded. But it doesn't interfere with enjoyment of the film as a rattlingly good adventure.

"Grand Prix" covers the more contemporary scene of the speed-car world as definitely as it can possible be done. The audience is placed in low-slung racers and whirled around Europe's classic tracks at 180 miles an hour so that you get the thrill, the danger — and almost the smell — of the race.

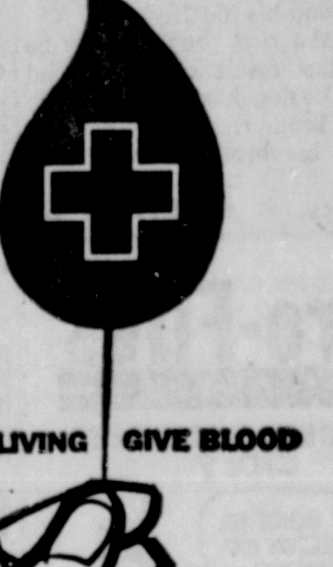

Director John Frankenheimer, whose love of racing is obvious in every scene, has used the Cinemascope for a degree of participation far beyond the roller coaster ride of the original Cinemascope movie. The result is exciting, hypnotic and sometimes vertigo-inducing. Frankenheimer wisely varies the racing shots with split screens and sometimes a fringed one, hurling a dozen or more separate scenes on the screen.

Hamilton Has No Comment On Marriage

ACAPULCO, Mexico (AP) — Actor George Hamilton says whether he and Lynda Bird Johnson will marry "is a very personal question and we will keep it personal."

"We have never commented upon this and will continue to keep this policy," Hamilton told newsmen in Acapulco, where he and President Johnson's 22-year-old daughter are vacationing.

The actor and Miss Johnson held a news conference Tuesday at the home of former actress Merle Oberon, their hosts.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Tight money, a major weakness in a generally strong economy this year, is easing rapidly but the potential home buyer still faces the highest interest rates on record.

Indications of the easing, and a prediction of further easing next year, came at a fast clip Tuesday, capped by an announcement from the Federal Reserve Board of an end to a policy begun last September aimed at restricting bank lending to business.

The board said current credit

conditions made its September policy "inoperative."

Interest rates on mortgages generally lag behind the rest of the money market but one economist said today he expected a leveling off now and a possible downturn within the next few months.

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board reported Tuesday that interest rates on conventional home loans increased again during November but the slower over-all pace and a greater availability of funds indicated the peak may be near.

There were these other developments:

— Secretary of Commerce John T. Connor, in his annual economic outlook, predicted a "somewhat easier credit situation" during 1967 with an advance in home building from its lowest level since the end of World War II.

— The Federal National Mortgage Association reduced sharply the interest rates on its short-term discount notes, the second drop this month after an upward trend which began in September 1965.

The government's short-term borrowing costs, usually the first to reflect easing in money markets, have already dropped below 5 per cent since reaching their peak Sept. 19.

His Friend Must Be Pretty Neat Artist

NEWTON, N.J. (AP)—Tune E. Conquy, 66, received a letter recently from a friend in Colorado.

The envelope was addressed simply: Newton, N.J., and carried a picture of Conquy.

"The boys at the post office here just stuck it in my box, No. 127," Conquy said. "They must have just taken it for routine."

Some 3,000 dissident Confederates emigrated to Brazil after the Civil War. Their descendants try to preserve some of the old traditions, living in a city named Americana, in white-pillared mansions, picnicking on fried chicken and biscuits, singing "Dixie" and speaking English with a thick Southern accent.
